Iron Curtain Nations Put Clamp on Newsmen

Want to Shield All Movements From Observation by West

London, April 29 (AP)—Communist nations are making it clear today that one of the things they fear most is free exchange of information.

To Soviet satellites are busily cementing up pooleholes in the Iron Curtain, sealing off their people both from the inquisitive eyes and the insistent voices of the west.

From one Iron Curtain country after another, western reporters are being expelled. Nationals who write news for the west are being jailed or hounded. Visas for western reporters are extremely difficult and sometimes impossible to obtain.

American government information services have been ended in Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia.

All Must Get Out

Why? It could be for any one of a number of reasons. As for the western reporters, the Communist countries and Russia may be getting ready for coordinated activities they want to shield from the curious eyes of the west. Gradually they are getting rid of correspondents in a position to interpret as well as report the events in the satellite bloc. The indications are that more expulsions are to come.

The information services have been able to disseminate only a trickle of news, but even that trickle evidently has irritated some spots.

The People's Democracies, busy communizing on the Stalin scale, want no comparisons.

Here is a summary of the newly stepped up drive against free information exchange in the Communist countries:

Romanian Leonard Kirschen, Romanian who served as correspondent of the Associated Press, was arrested this week. The reported charge is that he was named in a trial of others as having been an informant for John Bennett, former chief of the British information office in Bucharest.

Marcel Pohne of the Jewish Telegraph Agency also was arrested on charges which grew out of the military trial of five Romanians formerly employed by the British and American information services. The U. S. legation there is studying the reports of the trial and plans a report to Washington.

No Official Reason

No western correspondent has been admitted to Romania for two years. Both the United States and Britain have closed their information services in Bucharest on orders of the Communist government. Visitors to the two services March 3 found notices that the services had suspended their activities, library service, concerts and films. No official reason was given. The services' job had been to acquaint the Romanian public with facts about life in Britain and America. The Romanian government already had closed the French institute.

Bulgaria—The Bulgarian Communist government ended the Associated Press' news gathering facilities last week. Efforts to reach the A.P. correspondent in Sofia, Dimitar Mishev, have been unavailing. He is a Bulgarian citizen. After a recent "spym" trial in which the Communists accused the United States minister of plotting against the government, the United States broke diplomatic relations with Bulgaria, the most drastic retaliatory step yet taken against Soviet satellite.

Censored Reports

Czechoslovakia—Early this month the Communist government of Czechoslovakia expelled the A.P.'s last American reporter at Prague, and has thus far failed to grant a visa for another AP correspondent. At one point this month Czechoslovak "nationals" carrying on for the AP in Prague indicated they could do no more, but later this was refuted and the nationalists are allowed to file material handled by the official news agency.

The government also expelled the United Press' American staffer this month, but permitted another American to replace him. Three months previously the Czechoslovak government expelled four other western correspondents—one each of The Associated Press, The United Press, the French Press Agency and British's Kempton newspapers. In all cases the expelled reporters were accused of "unobjective" reporting. They denied it, challenged the government to substantiate the charges and were rewarded with stony silence.

Czechoslovakia expelled Joseph C. Kolarek, U. S. press attaché in Prague, and closed the U. S. In-

Margaret Webster Confers With Local Group on Theatre

Names Plays to Be Given During Woodstock Season Opening in Early July

Margaret Webster, slim, chic and attractive, talking informally with a group of Kingstonians yesterday, announced the names of the plays her company plans to present in Woodstock this summer, and added that she herself would play a role in one of them—Chekhov's "Three Sisters"—and Eva LeGallienne in another.

The famous producer conferred with approximately 20 persons in the lounge of the Governor Clinton Hotel announcing her plans, and asking for comments and suggestions.

The season will open July 1 or July 3 with two short plays, "The Apollo of Bellac" by Giraudoux, author of "The Madwoman of Chaillot," and "Fortunato" by the Quinterno brothers, which will feature Miss LeGallienne. It will be the first performance in this country of "The Apollo of Bellac," Miss Webster said.

Miss LeGallienne will produce the second play of the season—"The Corn Is Green" and will lend her advice and assistance to the third play, "Three Sisters."

Her Major Ambition

"I will be realizing a lifetime ambition in producing the 'Three Sisters,'" said Miss Webster. "I think it is possibly the greatest play ever written. And I'm going to take a part in it myself—I've given myself that bonus."

She and Miss LeGallienne have refurbished and modernized the translation of the play, she said.

Next play to be given is London's "On Approval" and that will be followed, perhaps, by Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar." Miss Webster said there was some doubt in her mind concerning "Caesar," since it was given in Woodstock last fall. The definite decision on repeating it will be announced later.

The following presentation will be the very funny farce "Dandy Dick" by Pinero, and then will come Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew."

"And then that other greatest play of the twentieth century 'St. Joan,' by Bernard Shaw," said Miss Webster. "That will be the week of August 21."

Those eight plays will complete the presentations by the Webster company, but the season will include two more shows of equal calibre by top-notch summer companies, to be announced later, she said.

Insists on Preparation

The Woodstock venture will definitely not be the "usual type of summer theatre operation—the usual business of throwing on a play in a week," she told the group. "These are exceptions; all good plays, and that can't be done the way . . . This will be a really new animal in the summer theatre circuit. I would rather die than do 'Three Sisters' badly and throw in 'St. Joan' in a week."

She said she had avoided summer stock reluctantly, and would never give up "drama" although such a move plain except in a unique community as Woodstock.

Closer Cooperation Is Called for on Foreign Affairs

Republican Leader Wants Party Chiefs to Sit at Conference With Acheson

Washington, April 29 (AP)—A new Republican club went out today for closer two-party cooperation on foreign affairs, as the slow-moving Senate debate on a $37,450,000 foreign aid bill headed into its final days.

Senate G.O.P. leader Wherry of Nebraska said Republican chiefs should be invited to attend a scheduled closed-door conference Monday between Secretary of State Acheson and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Acheson is expected to discuss topics he will take up with the British and French foreign ministers at forthcoming meetings in London and Paris.

Wherry told a reporter he wouldn't press the point if committee members objected. Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) objected.

Connally said the committee hasn't made any arrangements for outsiders to attend the session, adding that he feels G.O.P. committee members are capable of representing minority sentiment.

It was Connally who succeeded yesterday in setting a target date for the end of the dragging foreign aid debate, after Wherry and Democratic leader Lucas of Illinois had tried and failed. At Connally's suggestion the Senate agreed to a final vote on the bill next Friday at 1 p.m. (EST).

Referring to Acheson's meeting with the foreign relations committee, Wherry said it's just such sessions which Republican leaders should be asked to attend, if the administration really wants to enlist G.O.P. support for a bipartisan foreign policy.

Can't Afford Wrangle

Democratic sentiments on this issue were indicated by Lucas yesterday during a discussion of the recent attack by Russian fighters on an unarmed American patrol plane. This is one of the subjects Acheson is expected to discuss with the committee.

In a radio recording Lucas said the attack ought to demonstrate to Congress that lawmakers can't afford to engage in partisan wrangling at this grave hour in history."

The Democratic leader called the incident "an act of flight, a sign of panic" on the part of the Russians. He said relations between the United States and Russia had produced the "most dangerous peacetime drift our country has ever experienced."

War's Poison Gas Now Being Used in Fight on Cancer

New Treatment Enables Doctors to Deal Full Force Against Some Tumors

Washington, April 29 (AP)—A new and apparently more effective method was announced today of using "nitrogen mustard"—one time poison gas materials—against human cancer.

"Remarkable" shrinkage of treated tumors and complete relief of pain in ten hopelessly advanced cases were described by the American Cancer Society.

Seven of the ten have died but all responded to some extent to treatment. The shrinkage occurred, however, only in tumors directly treated. Related, but non-treated growths, were not diminished.

The new method enables doctors to concentrate virtually the full wallop of the nitrogen mustard against certain tumors. Up to now, such chemicals have been injected into the veins of patients. Used that way, they have had only limited usefulness, being spread throughout the whole body, with the diluted effect.

Under the new method, they are injected not into veins but into arteries directly feeding specific cancer areas. Thus used, they have shown an ability in preliminary trials to affect types of cancer unresponsive to the other technique.

The scientists have launched a search for some other chemical which might make the new technique more effective.

The "encouraging" results in ten hopeless malignancies of the brain, mouth, nose, neck and leg were reported by researchers of George Washington University's Department of Surgery.

Must be Small Doses

They warned that severe reactions—including convulsions—can accompany the treatment, adding that injurious use might produce the death of all normal tissue within a treated area. Very small doses are used.

Miss LeGallienne will produce the second play of the season—"The Corn Is Green" and will lend her advice and assistance to the third play, "Three Sisters."

They cautioned further that in its present stage of development, at least, the method does not constitute a chemical cure for cancer in the same way that surgery, and X-ray can sometimes cure the disease.

May Check Spread Later

And they said it was not expected to be of value to patients whose original cancer had spread widely to other parts of the body.

However, the university surgeons said further development of the technique might make it pos-

Highland Infant Found Dead in Crib.

Suffocation Is Blamed for Child's Death by State Police

The two and a half month old baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Sorbella of R.F.D. 1, Highland, was pronounced dead at Vassar Hospital in Poughkeepsie this morning, state police at Highland reported.

The baby apparently died in his crib between 3 and 8 a.m., possibly of accidental suffocation, state police said. A Dutchess county medical examiner will conduct an investigation to determine the exact cause of death. State police said the body bore no marks of violence.

The child's mother told state police she had avoided suffocation by placing him in a Highland physician, who advised him to take the baby to the hospital immediately, state police said. The baby was apparently all right when he was fed at 3 a.m., Mrs. Sorbella told troopers.

Starts Contempt Action

Washington, April 29 (AP)—Senator Tydings ordered a start today on contempt proceedings against Earl Browder and Frederick Vanderbilt Field for refusal to answer questions before his Communist investigating committee.

Arlen T. St. Louis, former city manager of Schenectady, named deputy rent administrator for the upstate district.

Gerald Rowley, Rye, former director of the state bonus bureau, named head of the New York downstate rent district—the area south of Poughkeepsie.

John J. Fogarty, executive officer for the state rent administration.

Willis R. Locke of 6 Smith avenue today was re-appointed a member of the board of police commissioners by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk. Locke's term will expire May 1, 1954.

A man identified by Boston F.B.I. Chief E. A. Soucy as Fred Zoboli (above), 45, was arrested in New York April 28 by the F.B.I. Massachusetts state police said he is wanted for questioning in the bandit-gang $1,700,000 robbery of Banks armored car firm. Authorities said Zoboli also was known as John F. Costello.

Hoover's Proposal Of UN Minus Reds Is Not Too Popular

State Department Advisers Believe Plan Would Make Two Rival World Areas

(By The Associated Press)

Former President Herbert Hoover's proposal that the United Nations be revamped without Russia gained little approval throughout the world, an Associated Press survey revealed today.

Hoover's speech was not prominently played by most newspapers. Most responsible government officials refrained from comment, saying that the former president spoke only as a private citizen.

At Lake Success, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, a United States delegate to the U.N., said she believed "in doing the best we can with the U.N. as it is organized."

Assembly President Carlos P. Romulo said the U.N., with Russia in it, is the "only workable bridge that we have today between the two hostile camps on either side of the charasm."

Vladimir Houdek, permanent delegate from Communist Czechoslovakia, said the Hoover plan was not the best way to secure world peace. He said the Russian-bloc countries, who have been boycotting the U.N. over the question of Chinese Nationalists representation, are not going to "quit the U.N."

Houdek's statement at a press conference was the first reaction from one of the countries which Hoover's proposal would exclude.

T. F. Tsiang, chief delegate of Nationalist China, said the world is "not quite ready for such a drastic proposal, but the pressure of world events will eventually drive us to accept Mr. Hoover's proposal."

In Washington, President Truman would not comment. Presidential Secretary Charles Ross said Mr. Truman had congratulated Hoover on his call for "mobilization of the moral forces of the world," but declined the President did not go into the subject of revamping the U.N.

Reaction in other Washington quarters was mixed. Senator George (D-Ga.) said, "Ultimately we will have to come to that."

Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said Congress should give "profound and immediate" consideration to Hoover's views.

But John Foster Dulles, Republican adviser to Secretary of State Dean Acheson, said there is "no occasion to destroy the universality of the United Nations."

Another Republican, John Sherman Cooper, said "A U.N. without Russia and the satellites would increase tensions and freeze the world into two rival areas."

All Quiet in School Rioting But Police Guard City Hall

New York, April 29 (AP)—Peace descended on New York's high school student front today after four days of riotous demonstrations for higher teacher pay and restoration of dances and other after-school activities.

"All quiet" was the word from the city hall sector where teenagers clashed repeatedly with police cordons earlier in the week.

It was Saturday—a no-school day. There was no occasion for playing hooky. Apparently the disorders had subsided—for the week-end, at least.

But more than 100 policemen, afoot and mounted, patrolled the city hall section just in case.

In another connection, Budenz discussed Owen Lattimore, Johns Hopkins University professor and Far Eastern expert under attack by Sen. McCarthy.

500 Persons Enjoy Grade School Concert Presented Friday Night by 160 Children

BY JEAN MELE

About 160 children—brushed and combed and dressed up in their Sunday best—presented a full-length concert at the Kingston High School auditorium last night, with orchestra, ensemble, soloists, and even dancers, under the able direction of Miss Lulu May Roberts, instrumental teacher in the grade schools.

The entire evening was an extraordinary demonstration of patience, dedication and determination on the part of the hard-working Miss Roberts. And the self-control and earnestness of the children, plus the organizing genius of the director, made the concert as splendid and agreeable a tribute to the art of music as the finest recital by the most renowned artists.

I suspect that most of the audience of about 500 persons had come out of loyalty to a son or daughter or niece or nephew—and I think most of them expected to squirm away a rather painful evening.

But the concert for the most part was fast moving and varied, and was interspersed with solo numbers—some of them very well done. And gradually the stupendous organizing and teaching job done by Miss Roberts was brought home to everyone.

During intermission you could hear the comments: "Oh, she's a hard-working woman!" "I didn't really want to come—but—" "Aren't the children good?"

Musically speaking, the high point of the evening came with concert mistress Jane Gunter's presentation of the Accoya Concerto No. 1 in A minor. Jane has studied four years under Leonard Stine; her intonation is for the most part very good, and she plays with assurance and considerable spirit.

Humorously speaking, Master Phillips Elighney, age seven, took the prize. Phillip first appeared with Richard Luettke, also very young, with her plans and hopes for a week's festival of drama, music and painting to make Woodstock a "real festival center."

Margaret Webster

Depends on Support

"We hope to make a beginning towards that end this year," she said, "but all longer range plans must necessarily depend on the interest and solid support of this community. We are not asking for money, or trying to make money," she declared, "quite the reverse. Most of us will get nothing out of the summer except the pleasure of doing it. We are not asking anything but the interest of the community in 'first-class goods.' We are not a charity."

"The future depends upon the success of the first season, and the success of the first season depends just as much on the community as on ourselves. I myself will give to the utmost of my ability, with all of my heart, all that I can give."

Michael Linenthal of the Playhouse and Miss Webster's assistant, Eddie Choate, discussed the problem of subscriptions, and upon suggestions from his listeners, declared that the subscription would be for eight plays of the 10-play season, permitting subscribers to skip any two they wished.

It was also decided that subscribers could change the date of their attendance provided they notified the box office a certain time in advance. Block tickets and theatre party tickets and benefits also were discussed.

Hadasah On Air

A roundtable discussion of interest to Hadasah and B'nai Brith members will be broadcast Sunday, April 30, on Station WKLY. The topic will be "Dual Loyalty." Mrs. Alex Parnett will be moderator. Mrs. H. Segall, Mrs. Rose Mandell and Miss Susan Mandell will represent the Young Judea group while Marilyn Werbowksy will represent the B'nai B'rith Girls.

Mr. Choate brought out that the Webster company was twice the size of the usual summer company, and that the plays would have at least twice the usual rehearsal time. Some of the plays are already in rehearsal.

When Miss Webster asked her audience how Kingston had reacted to the news of her plays, Mrs. Raymond Gross, Dr. and Mrs. Henry L. Bibby and Robert Russell of Saugerties were among those who reported that all their friends and acquaintances were extremely "enthusiastic."

"Every organization in Kingston should get back of it," said Miss Florence Cordts. "I think it should be brought out that the initial subscriptions are most important for its success."

AWARDS FOR FIRE PREVENTION

The National Board of Fire Underwriters has announced that nine active leaders in the field of press and radio have been selected as judges for its annual awards for outstanding service in fire prevention. These impartial experts will choose a daily newspaper, a weekly, and a radio station to be honored with a gold medal or $500 cash. Other papers and radio stations which do a job of unusual merit will be given honorable mention citations.

Here is a contest which involves the highest kind of service to the community and to the nation. The National Board's awards have been made annually since 1941, and an enormous amount of good has resulted. Even so, our inexorably high fire waste remains a tragic national problem—and a problem of direct interest to every citizen. Of late, it is true, there have been moderate declines in fire losses, yet for the twelve months which ended last February 28, the total was more than $664,000,000. And the ghastly toll fires take in deaths and maimings, of which a high percentage occur among young children who cannot protect themselves, continues.

The newspapers and radio stations which have won awards in past contests, and those which will win this year, deserve congratulations for an important job splendidly performed. And those which participate in the contest but do not win should not be too disappointed. They are discharging a vital obligation to their readers and listeners, each one of whom should become a soldier in the war against fire. Without such fire prevention activity no one can estimate the tremendous fire loss in life and property that the nation would suffer.

CONGRESS AND VOTES
Critics sometimes say that if Congress could only forget for a while that there will be an election this fall, there would be all the difference in the world in the character of the legislation enacted. On the other hand, consciousness that the people are following congressional achievements, and waiting to pass judgment on them, is the essence of the American plan of government.

Perhaps the thing wished for by most citizens is that Congress would give as much attention to the votes and wishes of the people in the spring immediately after the election as in the spring immediately before election.

DIPLOMATIC JUGGLERS
The Russian diplomats are like the jugglers who keep several balls in the air at once. Not satisfied with the complications arising out of their operations in Western Europe, they are reported to be on the point of signing a new agreement with China.

This can be only bad news for China. It means just one thing, more gains for the Soviet Union and more losses for China.

Our schooling might have had more immediate value if quiz shows had come earlier. Lots of the questions fired them seem to be bouncing out of loudspeakers now.

The fact that the man of the house owns a suit with two pairs of pants doesn't mean he wears them.

WOMAN'S WORK
Fighting words were spoken recently in Detroit by Dr. John G. Bielawski, specialist for the Michigan Heart Association. The words were these:

"Most women use twice the amount of energy needed to do a job, and waste a lot more just fussing around."

Using a measuring tape and a stop watch to study the work habits of a housewife, a group of specialists pointed out ways of saving 75 per cent of her walking, 75 per cent of her movements, and 60 per cent of her reaching. Conveniently arranged kitchens and the use of a cart with wheels were recommended as aids to easier and more efficient work.

Houses being built today can contain kitchens which are admirably planned to save work, and the women who use them

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE PHILIPPINES NEXT
The fall of the island of Hainan leads to the next scene of conflict in Asia. Two possibilities are opened:

1. The Thailand-Burma sector;
2. The Formosa-Philippines-Okinawa sector.

Present indications are that it will be the second sector that the world revolution will try next. The Thailand-Burma sector involves the British Commonwealth, which the United States is likely to defend, even at the risk of war. The Formosa-Philippines-Okinawa sector is not altogether in that category and therefore that will be attacked for several reasons:

1. It is assumed that Chiang Kai-shek is so unpopular in the United States that no influences can be brought to bear on the administration or even on American public opinion to elicit any important support for him. Too good a propaganda job had been done on him in this country. His opponents were able, for several years, to have the Russian view published in our principal magazines and some newspapers.

A large Russian air force is being gathered on the mainland of China for the attack on Formosa. Chiang's scouts have found one concentration of 130 jet-propelled planes. There is also a fleet of Schnorkel submarines.

2. The seizure by Soviet Russia of Formosa would inevitably lead to the Philippines. There already a large Soviet-subsidized force is in being, the Huks, who are conducting a virulent propaganda campaign against the present government of the Philippines as corrupt and debased, and as slaves of American imperialism.

This campaign is to be duplicated in the United States, in books and magazine articles by so-called experts, who will extol the Huks as heroes of the people, brig bandits, peasants and workers who seek independence. It is believed that, in spite of the tragic errors that the United States has made in China, our people can be swayed up to accept a "democratic" revolution in the Philippines and that we shall not fight a people who rebel against their government, even at our peril.

3. The assumption of the Russians is that the United States will let Formosa go. Every act of our government since we abandoned Chiang Kai-shek to his and our enemies, strengthens this assumption. As soon as Formosa is part of the Soviet empire, the Huks will have facile contact with their Russian associates. The question will then arise as to whether the United States will fight for the Philippines or give up the Philippines-Okinawa-Japan line. The Russians believe that, short of Japan, the United States will recede.

There is an economic side to this which cannot be ignored. Both Formosa and the Philippines are closely related to the economy of Japan. Formosa has, since 1895, been integrated in the economy of Japan. It is sufficient in minerals, particularly iron and coal. It also produces sugar, camphor, tea, tobacco and peanuts. Most of these crops are sold to Japan, from which Formosa takes some manufactured goods.

Should Formosa be taken by Russia, General MacArthur would have to look to the United States for supplies which are now obtainable at lower costs and closer-to-hand.

The estimated iron reserves of Formosa amount to 5,000,000 tons. Hainan Island, which has just been captured by Soviet Russia, also possesses iron reserves. Hainan figures are, unfortunately, included in Kwangtung Province (Canton) reserves, which are estimated to be as high as 250,000,000 tons. Japan found the Formosa and Hainan iron ore very valuable. The loss of Formosan ore would affect the steel industry of Japan unfavorably.

I have recently been inquiring, wherever I can, as to what this country might do should both Formosa and the Philippines be attacked by Soviet China. Granted that this country would let Formosa fall, what would we do about the "agrarian proletariat" movement in the Philippines, the Huks, burst into a Russia-led revolution, similar to that of Mao Tse-tung in China? I can get no answer. The best I am told is that our Joint Chiefs of Staff are aware of the problem and have made their plans.

Frankly, more is needed than that. The China Communist problem has been ever present since 1924. Certainly, the Joint Chiefs of Staff must have been aware of that. Yet, the State Department practically gave China to Russia.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

ASTHMA

A few years ago I found myself writing very often about the liver because so many men and women, at or about middle age, find themselves bothered with gas attacks, and pain in the upper right side of abdomen. I also kept pointing out the great help to health of a properly working liver.

Lately I have not been writing so often about the liver, but often about the treatment of asthma and also about epilepsy because in my student days there was no special treatment for asthma, and the only treatment for epilepsy were the quieting drugs.

Because physicians are able to give relief to asthmatics in most cases it is well that these patients should know this and consult their physicians. It has been found that practically all cases of asthma are caused by (a) allergy or oversensitivity to various substances — fur, feathers, foods, dusts — and (b) effects of nose and throat. There are also cases of asthma caused by infection and a few definitely caused by emotional disturbances.

A distressing sight to parents is to see one of their children suffering an asthmatic attack with violent and unproductive coughing.

In "The Johns Hopkins Hospital Bulletin," Dr. Samuel Livingston states that the treatment for children who have repeated attacks of asthma is use of X-ray, X-ray and radium treatment help other nose ailments, particularly the third or dry form of catarrh, with the disagreeable odor. Another condition greatly relieved by radiation is the form of deafness caused by soft adenoid growths in back of throat which are blocking the entrance of the tube carrying air to middle ear.

In the case of many of these asthmatic children the fact that infection was present was discovered because the blood clotted so rapidly.

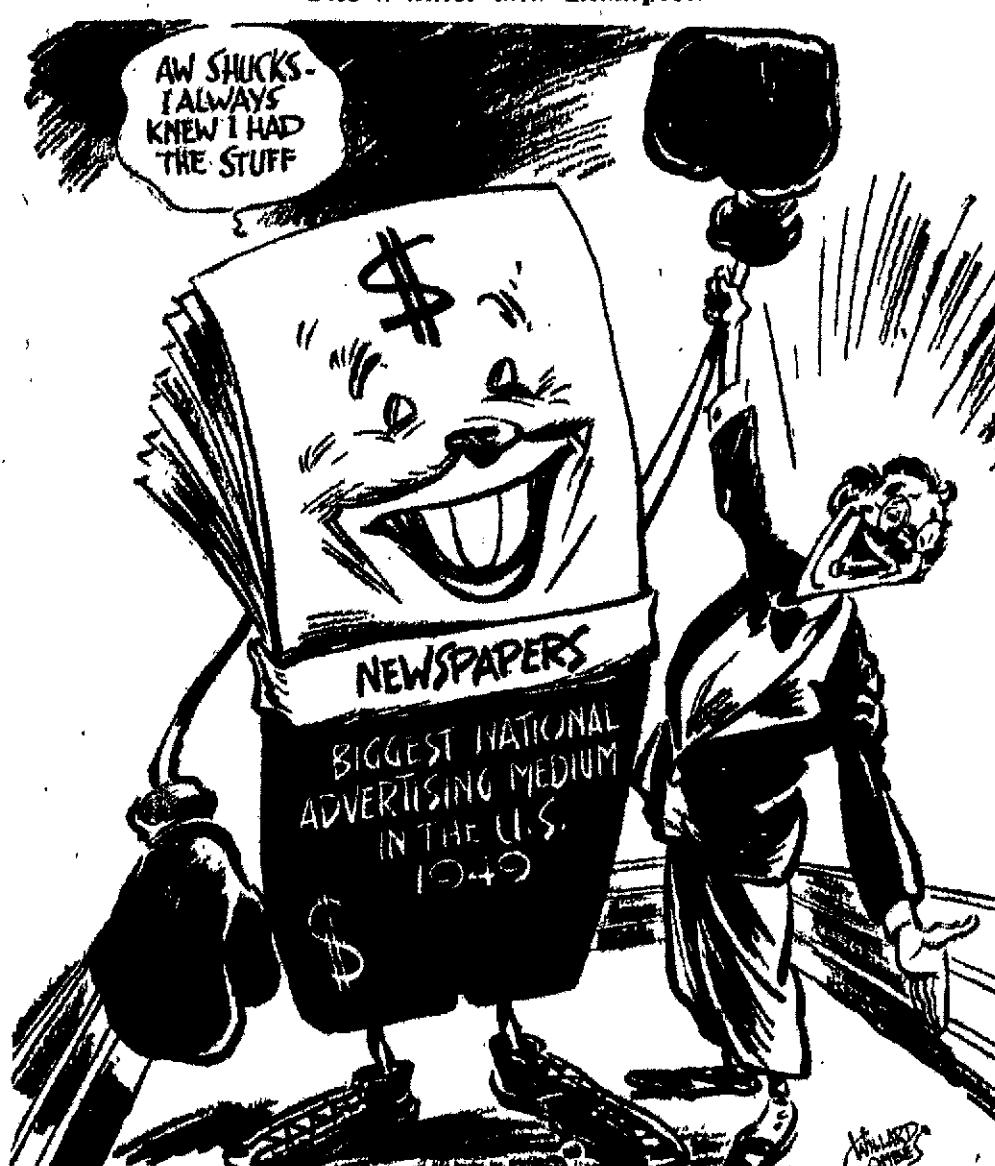

Asthma, Causes and Treatment

The cause or causes of asthma were unknown until recently. Now, if it is known that allergy, nose and throat defects, emotional disturbances can cause the attacks, most asthmatics can be helped. Send today for Dr. Barton's handy booklet entitled "Asthma," enclosing 10 cents and a 3-cent stamp, to cover cost of handling and mailing, to The Bell Syndicate, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 99, Station G, New York 18, N. have a head start toward efficiency. A large number of homemakers must, however, struggle in the great open spaces of old-fashioned, roomy kitchens. Careful planning and time-study methods can produce efficiency even in such surroundings, as has been amply proved. In regard to the doctor's last item, concerning the amount of time wasted "just fussing around," not even the longer life promised to time-budgeters is likely to do away with that.

Houses being built today can contain kitchens which are admirably planned to save work, and the women who use them

The Winner and Champion

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—A private Republican cocktail party, called to chart a new liberal policy, got all messed up when some non-liberal guests were invited by mistake.

Charming Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, widow of the late Congressman from New York, and the Perle Mesta of the Republican party, had invited a few Republicans to her home to discuss a new progressive policy of the Teddy Roosevelt variety. Though she is the daughter-in-law of a J. P. Morgan partner—former Secretary of State Robert Bacon—she represents a group of Republicans who believe the Democrats should not have a monopoly on liberalism.

When her guests started arriving, however, they included such Senators as Karl Mundt of South Dakota, Homer Ferguson of Michigan, Alex Smith of New Jersey and Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts — charming cocktail companions, but not crusading liberals.

This disturbed the real liberals who suggested—in whispers that they call off the meeting. Ignorant of this dissension, Mrs. Bacon blissfully herded her guests into a room where folding chairs had been set up and bade them listen to Russell Davenport, editor of Fortune magazine, spearhead of the G.O.P. liberal movement.

A bit hesitantly, Davenport explained the liberal policy statement he had drafted. The suspicious New Jersey Senator Wayne Morse protested that he didn't have much to say because it "might be interpreted as a funeral sermon and I didn't come to bury the G.O.P."

However, he agreed with Ives that a liberal policy statement would be "meaningless unless it is related to a candidate for office."

"We must support those who oppose it and oppose those who oppose it," he declared.

Probably the most cautious guest was presidential aspirant Harold Stassen who insisted he only "came to listen." He admitted, however, that such "discussions" of G.O.P. policy were helpful and should be conducted throughout the country. He also made an appeal for recruiting more young people into the Republican Party.

A few other guests also made cautious remarks, then rather nervously the meeting adjourned. It appeared that most of Mrs. Bacon's G.O.P. guests were a little timid about Teddy Roosevelt progressivism.

Branham Headache—Secretary of Agriculture Branham hasn't heard the end of his famous St. Paul speech. The General Accounting Office is now investigating the Agriculture Department for paying 5,000 county commissioners to listen to him. The commissioners were paid travel expenses to St. Paul, plus eight dollars per diem in order to drum up an audience for their boss. Unfortunately for Branham, the investigators found that Radio Station WCCO in Minneapolis made a wire recording of the speech—and every word of it was political.

Shokan, April 29—Ed Flynn, one of Kingston's young businessmen was numbered among the callers in the hub of the reservoir country Thursday.

Maynard DeLong, Local War 2 veteran, who has been ill in bed, is now well enough to sit up in his chair.

Ed Kelly, Kingston real estate man, is spending some time with his friend, George Kelder, at the latter's home in the village center.

What with the matter of a bond issue for the erection of the proposed Ontario Central School building having been voted favorably (988-231), it is expected that other details of the project will be worked out so that the big structure will be started somewhere around the first of September. There remains the completion of drawings and specifications by Architect Harbach, together with their approval by the state education department; the receiving of bids by contractors, and the sale of bonds. Barring delays, the $1,850,000 schoolhouse should be ready for occupancy in February, 1952. The new educational center promises to be a big thing for the town of Olive and the village of Boiceville.

Colonials Come Home for Sunday, Monday Drills

League Opener
Slated Tuesday
In Poughkeepsie

Kingston's new hopes in the 1950 Colonial Baseball League pennant race come home today! It was not exactly baseball weather that will greet them but, if possible, Manager Emil Gall will send his 19-man squad through the paces Sunday and Monday at municipal stadium.

The public is invited to the workouts and there will be no admission charge.

The Colonials broke camp at their palatial training quarters in Lakewood, N. J. early today and headed for Kingston by automobile.

Manager Emil Gall expressed satisfaction with the condition of the club and was optimistic about its chances in the race.

"The club is a hundred per cent improved over 1949," he told reporters, "and the Kingston fans will see hustling, aggressive brand of baseball. If we come up with an experienced catcher and a couple of good pitchers we'll be pennant contenders."

The Colonial League season opens Tuesday night in Poughkeepsie. The Chiefs return to Kingston on Wednesday for the local opener.

Karel Kozeluh Dead; Famous Tennis Star

Prague, Czechoslovakia, April 29 (AP)—Karel Kozeluh, 54, once one of the world's leading professional tennis stars, was killed yesterday in an automobile accident, reliable sources reported today.

The sources said the accident occurred while the veteran sportsman was driving his car from Prague to his villa at Klanovice, about 15 miles south of the city.

Kozeluh, once the foremost opponent of "Big Bill" Tilden and several times coach of the United States Davis Cup team, was one of the most popular sportsmen in this country.

He won the American professional championship in 1929 at Forest Hills, N. Y., in 1932 at Chicago and in 1937 at White Sulphur Springs.

Kozeluh coached U. S. Davis Cup teams in 1932, 1936 and 1937.

(Freeman Sports Editor)

Harry Grayson, the silver-thatched, frank, outspoken NEA sports editor, was talking and Fabe Russell, and others, were listening. It pays to listen when Grayson is orating. Thirty years in the business, he knows the inside of sport as few in the profession.

Singles and doubles are scheduled Sunday.

Personnel of the squad includes Reta Frederick, Helen Murphy, Ben Barley, Dot Rawding and Marge Jensen.

Mrs. Frederick, newly-elected member of the executive board of the New York State Woman's Bowling Association, will represent the K.W.B.A. at the annual W.I.B.C. convention over the weekend. Dot Rawding is the captain.

"Whatever happened to Gene Bearden?" asked Fabe.

"I told you the truth maybe you wouldn't believe it," Grayson answered. And then he unfolded a strange tale of how big league batters forced Bearden to get his knuckle ball up high in the base hit zone. And how did it happen? Let Grayson tell the story.

"When Bearden came into the league, his best pitching weapon was a knuckle ball that broke low. It was a tough pitch. It broke sharply and it was on that hairline between a strike and a ball. Umpires invariably called it a strike. The batters begged us to let it to no avail.

Mayors Started the Avalanche

"The way I get the story Manager Billy Meyer of the Pirates started Bearden on the down-grade. It was in those spring exhibitions between the Indians and Pirates. He saw that Bearden's best stuff came in low, dangerous close, if not right on the ball zone.

"Meyer is a shrewd customer. He figured out a scheme to force Bearden to bring his pitches up. Every time you're at that plate and you figure you lost a close one, go on a low ball, it squawks to the high heavens," Meyers told his players. First one then another joined in the organized aquawking. From an individual beat it rose to a roaring crescendo. The umpires began to take notice. Maybe the batters were right. Pretty soon the pitchers that Bearden was getting for called third strikes or forcing batters to go after being called balls. That forced Bearden to come in higher with the knuckler and that's where the batters like it to no avail.

Mayors helped out, too.

"The Pirates got first crack at Bearden in that organized campaign but the New York Giants really finished him off. As you know the Giants and Indians play about a dozen games every spring.

And those Giants had Bearden and the uniques crazy bunch on those low pitches.

"Maybe that wasn't the whole reason for Bearden's collapse," Grayson went on, "but it was a great contributory factor. Gone, one of the most courageous pitchers in the history of baseball, lost confidence in himself and has never been quite the same. Maybe his arm isn't what it used to be. But in my book that squawking campaign is what really started him on the downgrade."

Branch Rickey is the man who transferred the balance of power from the St. Louis Cardinals to the Brooklyn Dodgers. Say what you want about Rickey, he gets results. Not to mention five or six hundred thousand dollars worth of players that he peddles to other clubs almost every winter. The Giants sacrificed too much power for the D.P., but in the final analysis, pitching will decide the pennant. If the Giants have better pitching than Boston or Brooklyn or St. Louis they'll win . . . Joe DiMaggio is in the greatest condition of his career.

Billy Martin, Yankee rookie, is one of the best to come up in years. This McDermott of the Boston Red Sox is terrific. He's wild like most young left-handers but you always have to remember that southpaws mature later than right-handers. When McDermott gets the ball over the plate he has as much stuff as any pitcher in the game. Don't forget Lefty Grove, the great league pitcher for five years with Baltimore in the International League before he acquired enough control to come into the majors. And he still won 300 games.

Endangers Freedom

Lake Success, April 29 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt yesterday beat down Russian and French proposals to ban "Fascist" propaganda in a human rights treaty being drafted in the United Nations. Mrs. Roosevelt, chairman of the Human Rights Commission which is drawing up the covenant, said both proposals would seriously encroach on freedom of expression. The commission vote was 7 to 4 with three abstentions. The proposed covenant was submitted last year, but the Russians are now boycotting the commission. Both France and Russia proposed prohibition by law of propaganda of racial, religious or national superiority.

Mental Hygiene Week

Mental Health is what all do need. There are times when all must heed this problem most important. Life should be giving.

Peace of mind to find life worth living.

We all encounter at some time or other emotional upssets which threaten to smother.

There are many who are physically ill. But terribly important is strong mental health.

We have doctors to make things right. They can help you find the light. Work at human beings, how much can we do for them. Without proper guidance, minds can break.

We have doctors to make things right. They can help you find the light. Work at human beings, how much can we do for them. Without proper guidance, minds can break.

It is no shame to unburden your mind. Empty your hearts and you will find when things go wrong there's proper aid.

Mental health is now on parade.

Refuses to Drop Charge About Anti-Cold Drugs

Washington, April 29 (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission refused yesterday to drop charges that two patented "anti-cold" drugs may be harmful to some users.

However, hearing Examiner Earl Kobl left the way open for the makers of the two preparations to bring up objection to the charges at a later date.

The action developed at hearings to determine whether manufacturers of some of the new pills used "false and misleading" advertising.

Attorneys for Bristol-Myers Co., makers of "Resistab," and the Anabist Co., Inc., makers of "Anabist," filed a motion contending the F.T.C. is without jurisdiction in alleging that their products "may be unsafe when used as directed."

They argued that the Food and Drug Administration had found the products safe before approving them for over-the-counter sale.

Kobl denied the motion on the grounds that "it is not appropriate at this time" but added that he would reconsider it at a later time should the companies desire.

Western Prairies Are Blanketed by Snow

(By The Associated Press)

A snowstorm spread a white carpet across western prairie lands and Rocky Mountain states today as spring's delayed entry continued to cool the central part of the nation.

The late April snowfall measured as much as nine inches in parts of Montana and Wyoming. Freezing rains fell in parts of Nebraska and Kansas and showers and thunderstorms extended over areas from Texas and Oklahoma eastward into Arkansas and Louisiana.

Tornadoes which swept over at least seven sections of Oklahoma and West Texas yesterday and last night killed 10 persons and injured more than 100 others.

Rain and cool weather appeared in prospect over the weekend for most of the midwest, which has been hit by unseasonably cold weather most of April. The U. S. Weather Bureau, in a 30-day forecast, didn't cheer midwesterners with a forecast of another month of below normal temperatures. The Bureau said that May will be warmer than usual on the east and west coasts and below normal in the Pacific coast states and Florida.
